THE NEW JOHNSTOWN

Plans Are Now About Ready for Many Permanent Structures.

GOOD BRIDGES GREATLY NEEDED.

Forty Men Have a Narrow Escape From Death at Steubenville. ALL THE NEWS FROM NEARBY TOWNS

SPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH. JOHNSTOWN, August 22. - Although nearly all the buildings recently erected here are of rather a temporary character, some fine buildings will be put up in the near future. Contracts are already let for the erection of several fine business blocks. Plans for a new hotel on the site of the old Merchants' Hotel have also been approved, and it is the intention of the owners to have

There is some inquiry from outsiders for business properties here, but owners all hold them at pretty stiff figures and no sales are being made. The merchants are all doing a thriving trade, and the outlook for business people is good, as everybody will have to lay in a full line of supplies of all kinds.

Notwithstanding that the Board of Health says the health of the people is good, there is a great deal of sickness everywhere throughout the valley. There is no particular type of disease, but more people are troubled with malarial fever and nervous prostration than from any other cause.

It is painfully evident that serious incon-venience will soon be experienced if several good bridges are not built. The temporary structures erected after the flood are no of sufficient strength or capacity for the demands made upon them, and they all show signs of weakening. The one crossing the Conemaugh river partly gave way again to-day, and much inconvenience was experienced while it was being repaired force of men are at work removing some of ped while it was being repaired. SEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR. LANCASTER, August 22 .- The Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias this morning continued to discuss the constitution. The salary of the Grand Keeper of Records and Seals was fixed at $1,200, with an assistant. The salary of the Inner Guard was stricken off. An appropriation of $50 was made to each representative attending the Supreme Lodge session. This afternoon the discussion was continued. It was agreed that no

The Grand Chancellor's report shows that 21 lodges were organized during the year and 43 convocations were held in different parts of the State. The Chancel-lor suggests that a fourth district in Allegheny county be divided and all lodges located outside of Pittsburg be embraced in one district. This evening a long session was held, at which the discussion was con-

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

A Span of a Bridge Suddenly Collapses at Steubenville. SPECIAL TRLEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.

STEUBENVILLE, August 22 .- At 5 o'clock this evening 80 feet of the channel span of the Steubenville bridge fell down upon six gondoia cars, completely blocking the tracks. Last Monday the contractor began removing the old iron preparatory to replacing with a new double track steel truss. The work was being done by means of a traveler 180 feet above the bed of the river, and everything had progressed smoothly until this evening, when one of the traveller lines broke, throwing a heavy east iron post against the loosened frame.

Forty men were employed on the trestling at the time, but all had a miraculous escape from instant death. Two, Barney Gallagher and David Hall, were cut about the head, but the others escaped. The old iron which which fell is badly broken, and it will take at least 15 hours to remove the debris for the passage of trains. The Panhandle trains are using the Cleveland and Pittsburg tracks from Steubenville to Pittsburg.

in Attendant at Norristown Said to Be Insane-Other Curious Cases. NORRISTOWN, August 22 .- "It's a wonder that the attendants do not become insane because of their constant association with insane people," is a remark which visitors to the State Hospital for the Insane frequently make. The first case of this kind has just occurred at the Norristown Hospital. Mrs. A. M. Richardson, of Philadelphia, an attendant on the female side of the State institution, has become insane, but it is said that worry occasioned by domestic troubles is the cause, and not the result of her hospital duties. Ward's Sister-in-Law. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, August 22.-The gloom of disaster which overwhelmed the Giant ball players down East was brightened by at least one happy incident. The marriage ceremony took place on Monday morning at the house of a elergyman at Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Ward was the only member of either family pres-ent. Drended Horse Disease Said to Have Made Its Appearance. The glanders, a horse disease, has, it is feared, made its appearance in the neighborhood of Pittsburg. Grant Hays, living on the Brownsville road, and the owner of considerable valuable stock, several days ago noticed that one of his horses was ill.

It had the swelling and other symptoms of glanders, and Mr. Hays called in several veterinary surgeons. They were unable to determine if the disease was glanders, but said that there was every indication of it. Another examination will be made of the animal to-day by Dr. Barchfield.
